

The analysis of the psychology of personality, committed a crime in the use of computer technology and the definition of psychological prerequisites of wrongful conduct in this area

*V.S. Savchenko, competitor, «KROK» University
gotti_j@mail.ru*

Research Methodology: With the help of the system analysis to study the main characteristics of the psychology of the individual who committed a crime in the use of computer technology and the peculiarities of its impact on the criminal gangs of hackers. Statistical method evaluated psychological separation cybercriminals to those that attack computer systems from outside and those that undermine it from within.

Results: Analyzed the development of the computer underground. Reproduced, based on real facts, psychological features of modern cyber criminals. Offered classification mechanisms of hackers on psychological characteristics of their personality.

Novelty: Revealed objective psychological prerequisites for the formation of illegal behavior in individuals who are constantly using computer technology. Methodological approaches to the analysis of groups of cybercriminals in areas of wrongful conduct. Carried the classification of trends in the formation and development of the computer underground.

The practical significance: Based on an improved methodology of the study of personality psychology, to commit a crime in the use of computer technology, practical recommendations, which is a scientific basis for the formation of directions and means of designing targeted programs psychological training of law enforcement officers to solve service problems in the direction indicated. This will enhance the level of systems, structures and techniques of psychological support investigation of crimes using computer technology.