

Psychological Content of Staff Performance Structure of Information-and-Analytical Units of Intelligence Agency of the Ministry of Defense of Ukraine

*V. Shevchenko, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of psychological Department, «KROK» University
ahorall@meta.ua*

Research Methodology: By means of system approach the analysis of psychological content of staff performance structure of information-and-analytical units of Intelligence Agency of the Ministry of Defense of Ukraine is realized. The functional structure of information-and-analytical performance in the system of Intelligence service of Ukraine is considered taking into account the modern tendencies of national safety.

Results: Psychological content of staff performance structure of information-and-analytical units of Intelligence Agency is analyzed. It is proved that implementation of functional duties of information-and-analytical units of Intelligence Agency staff is the type of perceptive-and-analytical activity which follows in the condition of uneven volume and speed of information stimuli, directed to the task realization of receipt and analysis of reconnaissance information.

Novelty: It is well proven by the research that staff performance of information-and-analytical units of Intelligence Agency of the Ministry of Defense is multidimensional, that is stipulated by those aims and tasks which specialist-analyst carries out as well as conditions under which he executes his functions; it has operator and administrative-organizational signs; it is organizationally-mental by psychological type.

The practical significance: On the basis of research results the improvement of methodology of psychological analysis of performance of Intelligence Agency analysts has its further development; the practical recommendations are worked out that is a scientific base for optimization of mentioned personnel activity. Pre-conditions for further professionographic realization and measures of professionally-psychological candidate selection for corresponding subdivisions of Intelligence Agency are created that have for an object to increase the quality level of performance of intelligence units of Ukraine.