

The legal means to combat the economic threats to Ukrainian statehood

*V.A. Tymoshenko, Doctor of juridical science,
Professor of the department of State legal Disciplines,
University of economics and law "KROK"
avt1979@mail.ru*

Research Methodology. The state of legal protection of economic state security has been investigated and the peculiarities of functioning of the system of legal protection of economic security have been identified with the help of a systematic approach. Statistical method was used to evaluate the actual status of the system.

Results. The current state of legal protection of the economic country security as a part of national security has been analyzed. The condition of provision and the peculiarities of the legal protection of economic security in Ukraine have been reviewed in this article. The mechanisms, means and methods of optimization of the development of the system of legal protection of economic security of the state are proposed. The role of traditional ways of ensuring legal protection of economic security of a country has been revealed.

Novelty. The objective prerequisites for the formation of the Institute of legal protection of economic state security have been disclosed. Methodological approaches to the analysis and implementation of systems providing economic state security are proposed. The classification of tendencies of formation and development of the system that determine its structural features have been realized.

The practical significance. Based on the enhanced methodology of the research of the system of legal protection of economic state security, the practical recommendations have been developed, which is a scientific basis for formation of projections, strategies and programs by relevant public authorities to enhance the legal protection of economic security of the country.