

Theoretical approaches to determine the amount of property damage due to violation of intellectual property rights

Kalibabchuk Vita Y., an assistant section of civil law disciplines state law courses Universities “

The University of Economics and Law “KROK» kavi2005@ukr.net

The Methodology of research. The method of peer review conducted qualitative assessment of determining the amount of material damage due to violation of intellectual property rights.

Results. The results of scientists' researches engaged in issues determining the amount of material damage, particularly due to the violation of intellectual property rights. The problems that are arising in the Ukrainian legislation in the preparation of legal experts have been studied. The obvious conflict problems of national legislation have been evaluated and the ways to prevent problems of this type have been recommended.

Novelty. Comparing the obtained results with theoretical work in this area. The ways of preventing this type of problems will provide forensic and economic expertise for determining the amount of material damage due to violation of intellectual property rights.

The practical significance. The results of research conducted by the author can be used to develop practical recommendations for improvement approaches to determine the amount of property damage due to violation of intellectual property rights.