

The implementation of the rights of man against the child

Stanislaw Stadniczenko, Professor, Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Law and Administration,

University of Finance and Management in Warsaw

Justyna Stadniczenko, Associate Professor of Civil Law and Private International Law

University of Finance and Management in Warsaw

Research methodology. Among the scientific and special methods of research, the author relied on the method of system analysis. Necessity of its application becomes obvious. The chosen topic of the scientific article provides for a system approach.

Research findings. The publication offers viewing of child rights in the context of legal disputes of various legal systems. It is the prospect of solving them is one of the items, which is updated and accented the proposed article.

Novelty. Presents a holistic concept of the implementation of the rights of man against the child.

Practical relevance. The findings may provide a scientific basis for making predictions and strategies for further development of safeguards for the rights and freedoms of the person and of the citizen in Ukraine. Available in paper material can be used in conducting broader research to the scientific analysis of the specific of the implementation of the rights of man against the child.