

The role of the people in the integration processes

Stanislaw Stadniczenko, Professor, Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Law and Administration

University of Finance and Management in Warsaw

Research methodology. Among the scientific and special methods of research, the author relied on the method of system analysis. Necessity of its application becomes obvious. The chosen topic of the scientific article provides for a system approach.

Research findings. Harmonization of resistance, for a reasonable and appropriate balance between the mechanisms of defining the role and functions of the people in the integration process is and remains the key question of modern humanities. The proposed study is an attempt of exacerbation and summary of the main trends and search formulas to solve these problems in a complex pattern of globalization.

Novelty. Presents a holistic concept of the role and function of the people in the integration processes.

Practical relevance. The findings may provide a scientific basis for making predictions and strategies for further development of safeguards for the role and function of the people in the integration processes. Available in paper material can be used in conducting broader research to the scientific analysis of the specific of the role and function of the people in the integration processes.