

Methodical approaches to an assessment of the level of enterprise economic safety

N.V. Prus, Ph.D, senior lecture, chair of management Taras Shevchenko National University of Luhansk natadanc@mail.ru

Research Methodology: In this article the systemic way of methodical approaches research concerning the assessment of the economic safety level is used. When developing sequence of perspective estimation of economic safety level of the enterprise based on interdependence of measure of objective implementation of the enterprise and measure of threats realization, methods of the economic analysis are applied.

Results: The analysis of methodical approaches to an assessment of economic safety level is carried out. Their advantages and shortcomings are established. The sequence of perspective estimation of economic safety level of the enterprise which is the basis of interdependence of a measure of the purposes realization of the enterprise and a measure of threats realization is offered.

Novelty: Need for perspective estimation of level of economic safety of the enterprise is proved. Methodical approach that provides a perspective assessment of economic safety level of the enterprise and is based on interdependence of measure of the enterprise purposes realization and measure of threats realization is offered.

The practical significance: Application of offered practical recommendations of rather perspective assessment of level of economic safety of the enterprise have to serve the purposes of formation of strategy and tactics of economic safety of the enterprise.