

Concerning the Issue of Methodology of the Finance Security Foreseeing of the Enterprise Activity Entities

*V. Hrushko, PhD in Economics, Professor
Finances and Bank Business Department, "KROK" University
Shpileryulia11@yandex.ru*

*T. Ganushchak, PhD in Economics
Finances and Bank Business Department, "KROK" University
Ganushchak_t@ukr.net*

Research Methodology. In the process of article writing the following methods have been applied, such as: logical concluding, dialectical method of economical phenomena investigation for determination of the content notion "enterprise financial security", graphical method was applied to create the structure of financial security of the enterprise, functioning of this structure, use of the graphic to foresee the live stock of the poultry.

Results. The article deals with approaches to economical category "enterprise financial security". The system of financial security of the poultry enterprise is suggested and the model of system functioning of financial security of poultry enterprise is offered. The approaches to financial security of the poultry enterprise have also been analyzed.

Novelty. The structure of financial security system of the poultry enterprise is developed, the model of new functioning system of financial security of the poultry enterprise is offered.

Practical Significance. The suggested models enable to raise the security in poultry enterprise and appear to be basic for all business entities, but at the same time they require individual approach.