

Management of Industrial Enterprises Restructuring in the conditions of Foreign Economic Activity

O. Shaporenko, Doctor in Public Administration, Professor, Head of International Management and Logistics

*«KROK» University
forolga@ukr.net*

L. Zhreb, Master's Degree student

*«KROK» University
lubov_dron@mail.ru*

Y. Mogilna, Master's Degree student

*«KROK» University
poprockiy@bigmir.net*

Research Methodology. Using a systematic approach to investigate the mechanism controls the restructuring of industrial enterprises in terms of foreign trade. By means of systematization method the main approaches to the interpretation of the category of «restructuring» are considered.

Results. The definition of the concept of restructuring is investigated. The mechanism of management restructuring of industrial enterprises in the foreign trade development is described. Integrated approach to the restructuring of the industrial enterprise is disclosed. Enterprises restructuring in the development of foreign economic activity exists in the interaction of two categories: on the one hand, the reform of the business processes of industrial enterprises, on the other hand – the reform of the system of foreign economic activity.

Novelty. Some aspects of the mechanism of restructuring industrial enterprises in the development of foreign trade are described. An analysis of research on the problem of restructuring of industrial enterprises is made.

The practical significance. Based on the research management mechanism restructuring of industrial enterprises in the development of integration and globalization processes practical recommendations on the implementation of the restructuring of industrial enterprises in the development of foreign trade are developed.