

Value of processes of management by information for forming of the system of providing of economic safety of enterprise

*S.V. Tsiutsiupa, Postgraduate Student, “KROK” University
s98754321@gmail.com*

Research Methodology: On the basis of systematization and logical generalization the role of information management processes in the system of enterprise economic security provision was defined. On the basis of the use of method of construction of the balanced indexes system the model of information management in the system of enterprise economic security provision was offered.

Results: The interconnection of information management processes and systems of enterprise economic security provision was considered. The actions of leading staff of enterprise with the use of the information system, directed on providing of economic security, were generalized. It was offered to use the system of the balanced indexes for systematization and organization of information streams in the system of enterprise economic security provision.

Novelty: Essence description of economic categories was specified, that gave the possibility to define the value of information management processes in the system of enterprise economic security provision. On the basis of the use of modern method of modeling of enterprise business-processes the mechanism of information management was offered in the system of enterprise economic security provision.

The practical significance: The offered model of information management in the system of enterprise economic security provision with the use of the system of the balanced indexes contains the list of key factors of success, which it is possible to use on a production enterprise. On the basis of their introduction the adjustment of administrative influence on information resources in the system of economic security provision will be achieved.